

These Autumn Songs for kids are just what you need to get you into an Autumnal mood and inspire some lovely seasonal activities. Autumn creeps up on us gradually bringing its golden highlights, the kids go back to school and the days start getting shorter. After all the lovely summer fun outside, it's time to gather the last of the harvest and get busy making jams and preserves to last the winter. Kids always love getting involved with fruit picking and foraging, and every autumn walk brings home a new treasure.

Autumn Leaves Are Falling Down - Songs For Autumn

Autumn Leaves Are Falling Down is always a great favorite among the Songs For Autumn. It is sung to the tune of 'London Bridge', so it is easy to pick up with a repetitive refrain.

Same music as London Bridge Is Falling Down.

Autumn leaves are falling down,

Falling down, falling down,

Autumn leaves are falling down,

On the ground.

*

Find a broom and start to sweep,

Start to sweep, start to sweep,

Find a broom and start to sweep,

Start to sweep.

*

And make them in a great big heap,

A great big heap, a great big heap,

And make them in a great big heap,

On the ground

*

But here comes the wind to blow them round,

Blow them round, blow them round,

Here comes the wind to blow them round,

On the ground.

(repeat as many times as you like!)

This song is great to sing outside when you are tidying the garden, it is a good way to involve children and have some fun together while doing some chores. All you need is a broom and lots of energy!

If you are inside, kids still love playing it with real leaves, just collect some nice ones when you are out for a walk, and bring them home. As long as they aren't muddy, you can throw them all over the place, and then get the kids to tidy them up!

So get ready to bring the family in and warm up to the idea that winter is right around the corner. With the days ending earlier and quality time at a premium why not share the fun of a song you once loved.
